AtTask Named 2008 SIIA CODiE Award Winner
Industry Peers Select AtTask as Best Project Management Software

OREM, Utah—May 22, 2008—AtTask, the leading provider of on–demand project and portfolio management (PPM) software, was named the winner of the 2008 Software & Information Industry Association (SIIA) CODiE Award for Best Project Management Software. For the past 23 years, the CODiE Awards have honored leaders and innovators in the software, content, and educational technology industries.

"Being named a CODiE winner is an honor for us," said Scott Johnson, CEO of AtTask. "It's great to be chosen by our industry peers as the leader in project management software. Winning this award affirms that we are incorporating the right innovations into our product to help organizations do the right projects, maximize their resources, and improve efficiency."

AtTask was selected from a field of more than 1,100 nominees and 340 finalists by a panel of journalists, IT professionals, industry analysts, and peers in the software industry. The company joins current and previous CODiE winners including Salesforce.com, Adobe, Novell, and Sun Microsystems.

"The CODiE Awards recognize those companies providing the best new technology products and services across a broad array of industries," said SIIA President Ken Wasch. "The awards and their winners are a testament to the power of technology to deliver innovative solutions to American businesses and consumers. SIIA congratulates all of the CODiE Award winners and nominees, whose innovation is essential for continuing America's leadership in the global knowledge economy."

Earlier this month, AtTask received the Red Herring 100 North America award, given to the most innovative private technology companies. AtTask is included in the Inc. 5000 list of fastest–growing private companies in America, and recently won the Gold Award from TopTenREVIEWS for its superior feature set, help/support, and collaboration tools.
